Revision Of SGA Constitution Explained To UK Students At Open Meeting Thursday

Revision of the Student Government constitution to eliminate conflicts with the rules of the faculty was explained to students in an open meeting Thursday night.

A special committee of students and faculty members is drafting the new document, and the meeting was called in order that student opinion on matters to be included might be obtained. The old constitution now in effect was drawn up when the University senate was operating; after the faculty was organized, conflicts in the two sets of regulations were noticed.

The committee now at work on the constitution, which will be voted upon by the student body before becoming effective, is composed of Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, dean of the University; Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, dean of women; Dr. M. M. White, assistant dean of the arts and sciences college; Professor John Kulper, head of the philosophy de-

AIR CORPS BOARD IS TRANSFERRED TO CINCINNATI

The Army Aviation Cadet Examining board, No. 3, which has been located on the University campus since March, 1942, has received official orders transferring the board to Cincinnati. Members of the board left the campus for their new quarters Wednesday, November 18.

Although the headquarters of the board will be located in Cincinnati, application blanks for men between the ages of 18 and 26, desiring to enter the Army Air Corps as aviation cadets, may be obtained through the ROTC headquarters, from Sgt. Louis Gordon of the Lexington Army Recruiting office in the Federal building, from Reed Wilson at the Wilson Machinery and Supply company, and through the American Legion.

Applicants, however, must appear for their examinations before the Aviation Cadet Examining board, room 317, Union Central Life building, Fourth and Vine streets, Cincinnati.

The staff consists of Capt. I. S. Swartz, Lieut. William R. Humber, Lieut. Col. D. D. Johnston, M. C.; Sgt. A. G. Rippe, Sgt. Joe Sanisio, Sgt. Stanley Gouchenour, Sgt. Robert M. Mercer, Pvt. Robert Johnson, and Otis Ackley.

Since the establishment of the Cadet Examining board at the University, thousands of men have been examined, many of whom have qualified for service in the Army Air corps and are now in training or on active duty.

The response of young men in this area to the call of the Aviation Cadet board for voluntary enlistments has been very gratifying, according to members of the staff.

Studios Broadcast Library Programs

A new program series, entitled "Kentucky in Books," is being broadcast from the University Radio Studios in cooperation with the Kentucky Library association. Miss Katherine Martin, associate professor of library science, is supervising this group of fifteen-minute broadcasts.

The first of the series was broadcast on November 10, and the others are scheduled for the following four Tuesdays at 5 p.m. over WLAP.

The speakers include Miss Sunshine Sweeney, Lexington; Miss Mildred Semmons, head of library science department, and students of the library science department of the University.

The schedule of remaining programs follows:

November 24—Historic Homes
December 1—Frontier Nursing Service
December 8—Frontiersmen of Kentucky
December 15—Kentucky Rivers

Union Board Committees Plan Annual Party

The annual all-committee party for the Union Board committees is to be held at 8 p.m. Monday, November 30 in the Must room of the Union building. All committee members are expected to attend as a picture for the Kentuckian will be taken at that time.

Since the various committees will be recognized during the course of the evening, each committee member should sit with his group, it was announced.

Claudine Mullinaux and Frances Jenkins are co-chairmen of the committee in charge of arrangements. Other members of the committee are Martha Boother, Lucy Byrns, Emma Bell Porter, Ethel Smith, Emily Hunt, Ruth Wheat, Marie Brackett, and Roy Cuningham.

"I think the lowering of the draft age was advisable because it will reduce the number of men who are taken over by the physical education department and one course for credit and one non-credit course were offered. The home economics department took over the home nursing classes. Red Cross certificates are being offered those who complete either course."

There are at least four qualified first aid instructors on the campus—Miss Margaret Warren, instructor in physical education; Miss Jane Haselden, assistant dean of women; Miss Mimi Wiedeman, assistant instructor in anatomy and physiology; and Miss King.

The women's vocational conference during 1941-42 was organized around the idea of giving University women an opportunity to learn what positions have been opened in defense areas for women.

KD'S, AGR'S WIN TAG CONTEST

Field House Fund Gets Proceeds

Kappa Delta sorority and Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity have been announced as the winners in Omicron Delta Kappa's tag-selling contest.

Over $300 was realized on the total sales, according to Jim Johnson, manager of the campaign, easily double the proceeds from last year's sales.

During the contest, which was held during the three home games, Kappa Delta turned in $62.90 for tags sold. Alpha Xi Delta placed second with $52.50.

Alpha Gamma Rho, winning fraternity, reported $39.50 while Phi Delta Theta came second with $34.75.

Cups will be presented by Omicron Delta Kappa to the winning sorority and fraternity as trophies for their efforts. Total proceeds from the sales will be donated to the University field house fund.

Contests Galore Featured Ag College's Fall Festival

Over 500 students, faculty and townspeople attended the annual Fall Festival of the agriculture and home economics college Friday night in the stock judging pavilion.

Betty Proctor, Lexington, and James Crowley, Butler, reigned over the festivities as king and queen, with Ruth Ellen Link, Lexington, and Martha Adams, Louisville, acting as attendants, and Roy Hunt, Valley Station, and Alex Veech, Taylorsville, serving as knights.

David L. Cleveland agriculture sophomore from Frankfort, was awarded the Alpha Zeta scholarship key for highest scholastic standing during his freshman year. With a standing of 2.8 last year, Cleveland ranked highest among the agricultural first-year men students.

Hog Callers

The hog calling contest, one of the "events" of the evening, was won by Mrs. L. J. Horlacher, wife of the assistant dean of the college, with Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, dean of women, placing second.

Mary Elizabeth Searcy, Sinai Junior, won the milkmaids' contest. Runner-up was Frances Timberlake, Munfordville senior, last year's champion.

The dairy cattle showmanship class was won by Marion Floyd, Oakland freshman. Rupert Warren

Today's Open Class Will Be Conducted Solely By Students

First entirely student-conducted open class will be held at 2 p.m. today in room 231, McVey hall. Members of Prof. W. R. Sutherland's class in English 7a, Public Speaking, will speak on "What We Must Learn From the War."

Questioned about the student lectures, Professor Sutherland stated that he did not know the plans of any student. "They'll say what they think," he commented, "and I have no idea of what that will be."

There are in the class about 18 students, and Sutherland expects at least 12 of these to speak. The professor himself will take very little, if any, part in the proceedings, he says.

Concluding the present series Prof. Charles E. Snow will lead a "Museum Walk" on December 2, and on December 11, Dr. Morris Scherago will discuss "How Germs Cause Disease."

US's UKs

Virginia Avie Byrnside, Lebanon, is now enrolled as an auxiliary in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps. She has been placed on reserve and returned to her home, subject to call to duty in the very near future.

Miss Byrnside graduated from the University in 1941. At present she is secretary to the principal of the Ft. Thomas high school.

Lieut. Edward B. Wallis, Lexington, is now stationed at the Army Air Forces Basic Flying School, near Walnut Ridge, Ark., and has assumed his duties as commanding officer of a squadron. Lieutenant Wallis reported for active duty with the Army Air Forces in June, 1940.

Editors' Board Selected To Compose Letter

The best way to a man's heart used to be through his stomach.

But times have changed — the best way to a man's heart is through mail call.

Consequently the War Effort committee of the Union Board under the direction of Betty Howard, has formulated a plan whereby Christmas letters will be sent to all former students now serving with the armed forces.

A board of editors, headed by Betty Jane Pugh, Kernel news editor, has been appointed to compose the letter, which will consist of greetings, a resume of social, athletic, and administrative news, and war activities on the campus. Members of the editorial board are Mary Norma Weatherspoon, Sally Mason, and Jim Woodridge.

The Union board is financing the mimeographing of these messages, two copies of which will be distributed to each woman student living in the residence halls, annexes, or sorority houses. These women are asked to see that the letters are placed in envelopes, properly addressed and mailed before Friday of this week.

Two addresses will be furnished each woman, along with the two letters, and these women are asked to assume the expense of two envelopes and two stamps only. It has been suggested by the editorial board that the women add a personal touch to the letters by means of a postscript in their own handwriting, extending personal greetings.

Town girls and others who do not receive letters distributed by the committee, should call Betty Howard, 7792, before Thursday if they wish to help in this program of extending Christmas greetings to University men in the armed forces.

Miss Howard and members of the War Effort committee especially urge University women to cooperate in this project so that all the letters will reach their destination. If any woman receiving letters is unwilling to take part in the program, Miss Howard explained, she should return the copies to Miss Rebecca Van Meter in the Union building, promptly.

YW, YM Sponsor Service Tonight

A Thanksgiving service, sponsored by the YWCA, YMCA, and the Baptist Student Union, will be held at 7:30 tonight in the Music room of the Union building. The guest speaker, Dr. Raymond McLean, president of Transylvania college, will be introduced by Jim Boyd, president of the Baptist Student Union.

Other entertainment will include a solo by Elizabeth Everson and selections by a male quartet composed of Robert Lewis, Harold Lindsey, Robert McNeill, and Martin Thompson with Mildred Buchanan as accompanist.

Peggy Drake is in charge of decorations and arrangements for the service.

All "Y" groups will attend this service instead of their regular meetings and any other students or faculty members who are interested are invited to attend.

Survey Discloses UK Women Have More Courage, Bravado Than Men

By BETTY JANE PUGH
Kernel News Editor

Joan of Arc had nothing on the UK co-eds.

These members of the so-called weaker, daintier, more delicate, sentimental, fragile sex are not running true to their stereotyped form at this University.

On the contrary they are exhibiting far more spunk, courage and bravado than the manly male.

Such drastic conclusions are based on a campus-wide survey conducted by the Kernel during the past week to determine the reaction brought about by the passage of the 18-19-year-old draft bill.

In answer to the question "Do you intend to stay in school and wait until you are drafted, or are you anxious to get into the fight?" nine out of ten 18- or 19-year-old men students voiced the intention of staying in school and out of the war as long as possible.

But with the women, the pendulum of opinion took a sharp swing in the other direction.

"If you were a man under 20 and in college, would you attempt to continue your education, or would you immediately enlist and get in the fight?" This was the question put to the weaker contingent, and their answer—in nine out of ten instances it was "We're rarin' to go!"

In one particular, men and women agreed, they would return to school after the war and finish their education.

What Price Education

Though the survey exploded the fine myth of young warriors, fearless and daring, by bringing out statements such as "I'll stay healthy till they catch me," it also put a considerable crimp in the idea of a "What the hell" generation.

Apparently all the zoot-suited boys with the idea that going to college is the best way to dodge an education or a job, have a different outlook now. At least so their reasons for staying in school and out of the war would indicate.

"I think education is the most important phase of a man's life, and it should never be cut short," came from one male as his reason for staying in college.

"A man must be prepared to work," said another. "College isn't all fun, its intense training and serious preparation as well as dances and football games; training to fit men for life after the war is over and forgotten."

Reserves Popular

The majority of University men interviewed either were members of the reserve corps or intended to join that group immediately. A few however just intended to "wait until drafted."

"I plan to enlist in the reserves, then wait till they call me. If I don't get shot to pieces in the war I'd like to come back and finish my education."

"I think this bill is a good thing, but I have joined the enlisted reserve, so that I may continue in my course of study as far as I can."

"I am glad that the bill was passed, but I am trying to get in the enlisted reserve, and hope to remain in school for awhile."

A few male members of the student body indicated that they approved the bill and were ready to enlist immediately.

"I think the lowering of the draft age was advisable because it will reduce the number of men who are taken over by the physical education department and one course for credit and one non-credit course were offered. The home economics department took over the home nursing classes. Red Cross certificates are being offered those who complete either course."

Women Play A Great Part In National Defense Effort

By NORMA WEATHERSPOON

Women In Defense Week is being observed in Kentucky November 22-28 by proclamation of Gov. Keen Johnson. And so Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, dean of women, and Miss Helen King, assistant director of the public relations department, have opened their files and looked over the activities of University women—both students and staff members—in the all-out war effort.

From dancing with soldiers to saving postage stamps, from taking first aid courses to knitting sweaters, from selling defense stamps to leading scrap drives the women are keeping busy and doing their share.

Before Pearl Harbor, in January, 1941, the preparedness program and training for women on the campus was begun. Classes in first aid, in Morse code, in home nursing, and in Red Cross knitting were organized. Each Friday during the spring of that year, women met in the lounge of Boyd hall to receive yarn and instructions and to return completed garments for the American Red Cross.

Knitting for the Red Cross was renewed in September, 1941, but because of the shortage of wool it had to be discontinued in December. The American Friends Service Committee made possible further knitting, however, and 22 garments have been completed for that group. Under their plan, interested women bought wool, made the garments, and then contributed them to the committee. This year a group of YWCA women are knitting for the Red Cross.

First Aid Classes

With the opening of school in September, 1941, five large first aid classes and two capacity classes in home nursing were organized. This year the first aid instruction was taken over by the physical education department and one course for credit and one non-credit course were offered. The home economics department took over the home nursing classes. Red Cross certificates are being offered those who complete either course."

There are at least four qualified first aid instructors on the campus—Miss Margaret Warren, instructor in physical education; Miss Jane Haselden, assistant dean of women; Miss Mimi Wiedeman, assistant instructor in anatomy and physiology; and Miss King.

one of the most extensive projects on the campus. Last year the war stamp committee sold approximately $1200 in stamps. Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, is sponsoring this activity this year. Beverly Griffith, senior from Ft. Wayne, Ind., has been made chairman of the committee, which sells stamps from 10 until 2 daily in the Union building. Defense stamp corsages for the Pershing Rifles dance recently increased the stamp fund by $100.

In addition, Mortar Board has given $50 for furnishing a room for home nursing instruction in the home economics building. Sarah Anne Hall, Mortar Board president, was in charge of this project.

Panhellenic council is organizing students for a surgical dressings unit. Already 14 girls are working in town each Tuesday, but Mrs.

Holmes stated that recruiting for this work has just begun.

Scrap collecting, in connection with the national campaign, was promoted on the campus almost entirely by women. Betty Jane Pugh, Kernel news editor, conceived the idea for a campus campaign, made the plans and arrangements, and was chairman of the drive. A women's organization, Alpha Xi Delta sorority, contributed the largest poundage in the campaign.

Patricia Snider, Kernel editor, and Sarah Anne Hall served on the committee for the War Chest campaign. This was not entirely a women's project, Mrs. Holmes stated, but the women did much to insure its success.

Soldiers' Entertainment
Soldiers from Ft. Knox have been entertained at Sunday dinners in the residence halls and sorority houses about every three weeks since last January. This plan was continued during the summer sessions. At least ten dances have been given and attended by University women for the Ft. Knox soldiers.

Women began the Student Union forum work which featured panel discussions of war news after the attack on Pearl Harbor. Men are now participating in planning these forums and the forums are being continued this year.

Newly created this year is the war effort committee of the Union board. Betty Howard, Louisville, is chairman of the group which sponsors and coordinates defense activities on the campus.

Under the direction of this committee, Christmas letters will be sent to former students now in the service. A special board of editors, headed by Betty Jane Pugh, will compose the letter telling of interesting events at the University. "Frequently I receive requests for recommendations for former students who wish to become nurses or members of the WAACs or the WAVEs," Mrs. Holmes explained. "Already we have numerous graduates in these branches of the service."

Former students now serving as nurses are Elizabeth Bengt, Mrs. Mildred W. Ellis, Marjorie Moore, Pauline Offutt, Ruth E. Rice, Elizabeth May Sams, Martha A. Taylor, Rita Cates, and Rita Riley.

Those who are members of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps are Mrs. Lucy P. Berry, Lula B. Blakey, Lois Perry Brown, Ruby Carter, Nell Hart Davis, Helen Horlacher, Frances House, Louella Mae Jones, Ruth Mason, Virginia Lee Overstreet, Marcia Randall, Lucille Shacklette, Jean Overstreet Smith, Mary Lee Unthank, Betty Prescott, Erma Jane Ries, Katherine E. St. John, Edith Skidmore, and Virginia Eversole.

Members of the WAVEs who attended the University are Agnes Gilbert, Bettie Gilbert, Margaret Mayes, Dorothy Paul, Eleanor Smith, Lucy Jean Andersen, and Nancy Jackson.

More numerous than letters from students joining the armed forces are requests received by Mrs. Holmes from well-known manufacturers asking for names of women who will graduate this year who will be qualified for war work.

"Almost daily," Mrs. Holmes said, "I am interviewed by FBI agents about former students who are now in defense work."

Thankful To Be Thankful

This Thursday, November 26 is a day of national Thanksgiving; a day to offer thanks for national blessings rather than our own personal gains.

We have adopted the habit of celebrating Thanksgiving in the past hundred years rather than inherit it as our New England brethren did from their ancestors, the Pilgrims and Puritans. It hardly seems possible but on thought we of today have more to be thankful for than they who placed the burden of carrying on Democracy on our backs. We are thankful for them for giving us that certain basic something to be thankful.

From New England Thanksgiving has become a national day set aside by the President and the Governors of the States. If we remember our history right it was once a holy day of obligation in which all members of the church were required to attend a service under pain of punishment. It has now turned largely into a holiday, a day of jollity and a rest from laborious vocations. Our schools give a holiday, banks close, courts suspend trials and those who live by toil take rest and enjoy Thanksgiving's leisure hours.

But since Thanksgiving last these things have changed; something has happened.

Pearl Harbor, Wake Island, MacArthur, Rommel, Shangri-La and a thousand and one other names and places never heard of before now play on the lips of nearly everyone.

Yes, since Thanksgiving last "United States Cream Has Gone To War."

But happen whatever may, we as American citizens will not become discouraged; we are always thankful regardless of how black the future may look. This is the undying trait inherited from the early New Englanders.

We are thankful for the courage and determination shown by the peoples of the Allied nations; for the taper of flaming hope that never ceases to burn.

We unconsciously recall to mind that there are unfortunate fellow-beings who need our help and sympathy—their orphans and relatives and all those that are friendless and poor and sad. It makes us feel like lifting up the stricken and encouraging the despondent and saying brave words to the despairing. Make them glad that they are alive.

The pause Thursday in the rush and crush of our every day life, in our labor for those depending on us, is in itself an interrogatory—why is there that can't give thanks. Nothing is never too dark.

This Thanksgiving is a day to pause and add and count what has gone before and be glad that we are walking on two legs and are well balanced with two swinging arms.

In times as these, he who is not an optimist is an infidel and full of ingratitude.

What has been, can be again. Our trust in ourselves and the victories of our forefathers should cause us no alarm for the future.

Their homes were very plain, the people were few and obscure but they were pioneers for clear conscience and liberty; they were the founders of New England; they are the everlasting immortals of all that is good and strong.

It should be an inspiration to us during this time to rededicate ourselves to the preservation of liberty and the maintenance of freedom and the perpetuation of that splendid manhood which John Alden and Miles Standish have borne to the generations succeeding them.

Give The Crippled A Right To Be Thankful

Saturday, December 5th, on Stoll Field, a football game between the star high school performers from the Eastern and Western part of the state will have a two-fold attraction.

Not only will it have two formidable teams against each other in an interesting battle, but it will give the spectators an opportunity to swell the crippled children's fund.

The game is being sponsored by Oleika Temple Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children in an effort to raise funds to purchase braces for boys and girls who have never been able to work or play. Without these braces, the unfortunate youngsters are doomed to lie on their backs, or hobble around on twisted limbs, or be pushed around in a wheel chair.

The cost of these braces is $100, and often two sets are needed for each child before the treatment is completed.

If the 19,000 seats available in the stadium are occupied for the game, the Shriners will receive over $15,000, a sum which will benefit 75 children directly and enable the hospital to continue its work.

Every University student and member of the faculty should consider it a duty and privilege to help fill some of these 19,000 seats, to witness a real show and give the crippled a right to happiness.

Anonymous Voices Blast Columnist

A member of The Kernel staff was besieged with calls Friday night in which anonymous voices demanded an apology by The Kernel for the article that was written by Bob Warth in that issue of the paper.

If these nameless voices will come out from behind the dark skirts of anonymity and give their names, status on the campus, and politics, The Kernel will be glad to make an explanation of the matter.—Ed.

Sacrifice Weeks

Two colleges, the Kansas State Teachers College and the University of Maryland, have launched "sacrifice weeks" on their campuses. Kansas State Teachers will go "coke-less, smoke-less, and candy-less," and the University of Maryland students will give up desserts, movies, cokes, and candy bars for seven days. At both colleges the money saved will be contributed to war projects.

SLOGANS FOR VICTORY

Wheels in the war plants of America are clicking to the rhythm of slogans — slogans which stress speed, the danger of absenteeism, the perils of inefficiency and the need of working hard, buying bonds and keeping a silent tongue.

The following slogans are not the best in the world but they get the point across:

"You Can't Sit at Ease and Beat the Nipponese."

"Not Defense — But Over the Fence and at 'em."

"T. N. T.—Today Not Tomorrow."

"Speed the Wheels to Beat the Heels."

"If it is Nip and Tuck, Make it the Nip That Gets Tucked."

"Bullets, Not Bull."

"U-tmost S-peed A-head."

"He Who Naps Helps the Japs."

"If We Equip Them, Our Boys Will Whip Them."

"Let's Zinc the Hell out of Them."

Sororities Give
Buffet Luncheons
For New Pledges

Buffet luncheons were given at 12:30 o'clock Saturday at the chapter houses in honor of the new pledges by various sororities.

Zeta Tau Alpha carried out the theme of their luncheon in the sorority colors of turquoise, blue and gray. The table cloth and candlestick holders were in grey and the candles were of blue. Rose chrysanthemums decorated the table. Theresa Theiling, social chairman, was in charge of the arrangements. Monday afternoon, the sorority held formal pledging at the chapter house.

Alpha Xi Delta luncheon was planned by Pat Lewis and Dorothy Robinson, co-social chairmen. Favors of pink Killary roses, the sorority flower, were given to each pledge. Formal pledging was at 5:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the sorority house.

The arrangements for the Kappa Delta luncheon were planned by Katy Jo Catron, social chairman. Monday afternoon at formal pledging, the new pledges were presented with white roses, the sorority flower. Kappa Kappa Gamma luncheon plans honoring the new pledges were arranged by Jessica Gay, social chairman. The formal pledging was Monday afternoon.

Alpha Gamma Delta honored the new pledges with a luncheon at the chapter house with Eloise Bennet in charge of the arrangements for the occasion. The chapter held formal pledging at 5:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the sorority house. Decorations for the Alpha Delta Pi luncheon Sunday afternoon honoring the pledges were carried out in blue and white, the sorority colors. Following the luncheon, formal pledging was held at 2 o'clock. The new pledges were presented with white carnations tied in blue ribbon. Betty Foster and Norma Rose, co-social chairmen, made the plans for the affair.

Chi Omega presented their new pledges with white carnations at the formal pledging at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, at the chapter house following the luncheon, at noon Saturday. Elizabeth File was in charge of the arrangements. Delta Delta Delta entertained with a luncheon Saturday in honor of the new pledges and held formal pledging at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. Virginia Cantrill, social chairman, made the plans for the affair.

lease married men who do not make as good soldiers as the younger men.

"The bill will raise the quality of men in the army."

"We've just as much reason to go as the older men."

"I think the bill is swell. They just aren't drafting us fast enough. I'm in advanced military but would be happy to go otherwise."

"I'm enlisting in the air corps at Christmas."

Women take the floor
Although a few women students agreed that it would be desirable to get as much education as possible, the majority were in favor of immediate enlistment.

"We women feel that we are utterly useless in this war," one student said, "of course we can do defense work of various kinds, but that is all so passive, we want to really get our teeth into something."

I'm going to join the WAAC's and apply for foreign service. It seems to me that boys would be anxious to get so much wonderful experience and see so much of the world."

"I would enlist immediately. I couldn't keep my mind on my work knowing that I could be of more use in the army."

Would 'Tear Japs'
"Maybe I'm bloodthirsty but I'd tear into those Japs the first chance I got."

When asked how they felt about the reserves, and staying in school to get as much education as possible, the women replied that they could understand why it would be "tough" to leave all the fun of college behind, but as for abandoning an education, that was falsifying the situation.

"You would not be abandoning your education, only postponing it, and besides what good would an education do you under Hitler," one girl expressed it.

"I don't think all these men have joined the reserves to continue their education; I think it's more likely to continue their avoidance of responsibility," was the bitter comment of another whose brother and father are both now serving.

MUSICAL MUTTERINGS by C. Gardner

Ted had dreamed for a career as a civil engineer. But during one summer vacation Ted organized a band which got a four weeks' engagement at a prominent Philadelphia cafe. To keep them there for sixteen months the proprietor made Ted a partner in the establishment.

Ted forgot engineering and one of the longest and most brilliant careers in dance history had begun.

In the early days a Victor recording official heard Ted's arrangement of "Somebody Stole My Gal" and immediately signed the band to a recording contract. They now record for Decca.

This famous orchestra has been a favorite in choice hotels, theatres, and night spots throughout the country, among which are the Palmer House, Edgewater Beach Hotel, Bismarck, Aragon and Trianon Ballrooms, in Chicago; the Waldorf-Astoria and Pennsylvania, New York City; Roosevelt, Hollywood; Baker, Dallas; Muehlebach, Kansas City;

Lowry and St. Paul, St. Paul; Book Cadillac and Westwood Gardens, Detroit; Gibson and Netherland Plaza, Cincinnati; Claridge, Memphis; Meadowbrook Country Club, St. Louis; St. Francis, San Francisco; and the Palomar Ballroom in Los Angeles.

Their theatre engagements include the Strand, New York City; The Chicago, Chicago; the Fox and Michigan, Detroit; the Earle, Philadelphia; the Stanley, Pittsburgh; the State, Hartford; the Earle, Washington; and the Lyric, Indianapolis.

A long list of radio engagements followed with colleagues like Jack Benny, Walter Winchell, Fibber McGee and Molly, Phil Baker, and also "Beat the Band," an audience participation show for General Mills.

Ted married Eleanor Logan of Jacksonville, Florida. They have a son, Ted, Jr.

What May Be UK Swan Song Is Weak Symphony; Vols Have Jam Session With Cats, 26-0

Defeat Marks Final Curtain Of Bad Year

What might prove to be Kentucky's football swan song for the duration turned out to be no more than a weak symphony Saturday in Knoxville, when Tennessee's Volunteers had a jam session of their own in routing the 'Cats, 26-0.

Some 21,000 fans — Tennessee's largest crowd of the 1942 home season — saw the machine-like Vols count a six-pointer in the opening period, add two more in the second and taper off with a touchdown in the third quarter. Only once did the Kentuckians threaten — only once did the Bluegrass boys cross over into Tennessee territory. In the second quarter Kirwan's Kats advanced to the Vol 17 before losing the ball on downs.

Saturday's renewal of the annual Thanksgiving classic was little more than a warm-up for the Volunteers, who still have to meet their home-state rival, Vanderbilt, before hanging up their grid-togger. Coach John Barnhill even called on the fourth-stringers as his charges tallied their 21st victory over 'Tucky in the series which began in 1899. The Wildcats have won 10, six have ended in ties.

Kentucky supporters gain some consolation by pointing out the absence of big Clyde Johnson, regular tackle, and Phil Cutchin, left half starter, who were kept out of the game with injuries. Even with these players in the game, however, it is doubtful if the score would have been much different, for the Vols were never pressed, had no need to call out the power shown in previous games. Charley Bill Walker, captain and center, switched to the tackle post left vacant by Johnson, and Jesse Tunstall took over Cutchin's berth. Jay Rhodemyre, soph pivotman, handled the snap-back duties.

With Kentucky's defeat Saturday a season record of three wins, six defeats and one tie was written into the grid annals—the worst 'Cat year in several campaigns. True, the cream of Southern grid teams was met this season, and the Big Blue did come darn nigh beating Georgia and Vandy, but the record has to go this way.

The winners registered their first score after 13 minutes of play, when Tunstall's punt carried only to Kentucky's 27. Six plays later the Vols had gone into the lead. Bill Hillman picked up 21 yards on a beautiful reverse. Bill Nowling, Vol full, gained only a yard in two line bucks, but Bobby Cifers, speedy half, scored on the next play, when he hit weak side between left end and tackle. Charles Mitchell added the extra point.

Tennessee's second touchdown came on a drive from the visitors' 49. Wingback reverses, straight plays and a 10-yard toss put the ball on the one-yard stripe, and Walter Slater plunged over. Slater also kicked the extra point to increase the lead to 14-0.

Here Kentucky's forces rallied and made their only threat of the contest. Seven plays went for 62 yards after the Wildcats started from their own 21. Bob Herbert slashed three yards on the first effort, then Tunstall threw a pass to George Sengle good for 16 yards. The Tunstall-Sengle duo re-enacted this act with another aerial completion, good for another 16 yards, featured by a finger-tip reception by Sengle. Tunstall switched to the role of ground-gainer to pick up 12 yards. A pass to Sengle fell incomplete, but one to Herbert gained five yards, and the Kentuckians were on the Vol 17. This was destined to be the end of the 'Cat journey, however, as the Tennesseans took over on downs after passes failed to find receivers.

Arthur Brandau started the Volunteers' second marker of the period by intercepting a Tunstall heave on his own 47, returned it to the Kentucky 35, after the Vols had punted out of danger following the Wildcat's loss of the ball on downs. Slater tossed a 15-yard pass to Red Zontini. Hillman bucked the line for three. Zontini then caught a Slater aerial and went over unmolested. Slater's try for extra point went wide.

The last Tennessee score came in the third quarter, when Slater threw a 44-yard pass to Jim Howell and Howell eluded Tunstall to score. Slater's place-kick again went wide, but Tennessee led, 26-0, so there was little cause for worry.

Weakness on pass defense, loss of the two starters, failure of Kentucky backs to produce when the chips were down—all of these factors contributed to the 'Cat defeat. The Vols held only an 11-8 edge in first downs, but out-gained the losers, 219-67, in rushing. Both teams completed four passes, the Vols picking up 89 yards via the air-lanes, Kentucky 49.

The summary:

Kentucky	Pos.	Tennessee
Sengle	LE	Hust
Walker	LT	Crawford
Colvin	LG	Price
Rhodemyre	C	Fisher
Bea	RG	Myers
Wood	RT	Huffman
Parr	RE	Lloyd

RUPP DECLARES NET SQUAD IS 'GOOD BUNCH'

Many Freshmen Working Out For Varsity Slots

By DICK GILLESPIE
Kernel Sports Writer

With that twinkle in his eye which he acquires when he looks forward to another great season for the Wildcat basketball team, Coach Adolph Rupp characterizes his present squad as "a good bunch of boys," and declares that they "are learning just as fast as any I've ever worked with."

To many this will appear to be a gross understatement, considering that Rupp will send out such players as Mel Brewer and Marvin Akers, but it must be kept in mind that the Baron is drilling along with his veterans an unusually large crew of freshmen, who, due to a recent ruling by the Southeastern conference, will be eligible for varsity participation this year.

Rupp also announced a change in the schedule brought about by a cancellation of the season's inaugural with Miami university in early December. Two open dates are thus left at the top of the card, but Coach Rupp says, "We have something in mind for these dates, although no definite announcement can yet be made."

The schedule as it now stands follows:

December 5—Open
December 7—Open
December 12—Cincinnati, here
December 19—Washington U., here
December 23—Indiana, Louisville
January 2—Ohio State, here
January 4—Fort Knox, here
January 10—Xavier, there
January 16—Tennessee, there
January 19—Georgia Tech, there
January 23—Notre Dame, Louisville
January 26—Vanderbilt, here
February 3—Alabama, there
February 11—Vanderbilt, there
February 13—Tennessee, here
February 15—Georgia Tech, here
February 20—DePaul, Chicago
February 23, 26, 27—Tourney, Louisville
March 6—Great Lakes, Louisville

RING AND MAT INTRAMURALS DRAW CHAMPS

Tournament Will Start First Week In December

The annual boxing and wrestling tournament—highlight of the intramural season—will get under way during the first week in December, according to an announcement from Arthur Gullette, intramural director.

Several defending champions and runners-up from previous years are scheduled to battle it out for honors. Among the returning fistic champs are Sonny Hall, 1940 winner in the 121-128 pound class; Arthur Francis, light-heavyweight runner-up in '40, winner in '41; Glens Dixon, runner-up to Francis last year; and Foster Spence, runner-up in the 121-128 class in 1940.

Four wrestling kings are expected back to defend their crowns. These are Milton Kafoglis, '41 heavyweight winner; Gene Meeks, '41 light-heavyweight titleist; C. C. Clements, '40 winner in the 145-pound group; William Leford, '41 champ in the 160-pound class. Others who plan to enter the wrestling eliminations are Ro Lear, 155-pound runner-up in '41; and Jim Thacker, heavyweight runner-up in '41.

With this list of old-timers on hand and a host of new faces, the South Limestone gym is expected to see much action before this year's champs are crowned.

SPAG'S NOTES

We were outmanned!! Seems as if Coach Barnhill threw everyone at us except the ailing water boy. Hadn't our team been physically handicapped (Johnson and Cutchin out), and had they been in the right frame of mind with a slight touch of determination, the Kats might have "rolled the barrel" back to the Bluegrass.

When a team defeats the Volunteers on Shields-Watkins field, it usually has to be about two to three touchdowns better. It's not necessarily the home field that accounts for this but rather the townspeople of Knoxville. It is truly a football-minded locale. The people seem to eat, talk, and sleep football. Early each summer the people begin clamoring for the possibility of a bowl tilt. They sort of set a goal for the coaches and the players to reach. Before each season's curtain raiser, they have tagged Tennessee to be one of the untied-undefeated eleven of the nation. So with this spirit and confidence that the fans (AND STUDENTS) have in them, the Vols go out each week and prove their might. How in the Sam Hill can you beat such cooperation? It should set a criterion for other towns, where colleges are located, to follow.

With the termination of the Vol-Kat tussle Saturday, we may have seen the last Kat grid machine in action for the duration. When asked about the prospect of another football season, Coach Kirwan replied, "I doubt whether there will be football next year." And a fellow in his boots, being on the inside rail, should know.

In case next fall presents another Wildcat roster, there will be ten outstanding athletes absent from its debut. Captain Charley Bill Walker, guards Norm Beck and Jack Casner; tackles Clyde Johnson and Clark Wood; ends Harry Taylor and Allan Parr; and backs

AGR'S AND SAE'S TIED FOR LEAD

Alpha Gamma Rho and Sigma Alpha Epsilon are tied for first place with four wins each in the intramural "A" volleyball league. The SAE's are also out in front in the "B" league with a quartet of successes; the Triangles hold second place with three victories, Phi Delta Theta is third with two wins and a loss. The Victors lead the Independent field with three wins and no losses.

Only a few more games remain before the annual tournament which Arthur Gullette, intramural director, hopes to hold immediately after the Thanksgiving holiday. Each team must win three games to be eligible for the meet.

KERNEL SPORTS

The Sporting Way

By BAXTER MELTON

With about as much confidence as a man in death's row talks about his activities a year hence, Bernie Shively, UK athletic director, has released the 1943 grid schedule. The reason for Shively's doubt of next autumn's card being played is the almost certain discontinuance of inter-collegiate football.

The program—Georgia, Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech, Cincinnati U., Auburn, Alabama, Xavier, West Virginia and Tennessee—in order.

As is apparent by a brief glance at the schedule, three 1942 opponents are omitted, two new teams are booked. Whether the proposed games are played remain to be seen, and depend largely on the goings-on of one Adolf Hitler and his sidekicks in Italy and Japan.

New outfits on the sked are Auburn and the University of Cincinnati, while 1942 foes who won't be met next year include Washington and Lee, George Washington and Virginia Tech.

All in all, this card gives Kirwan's Kats their stiffest slate since the scholarly mentor took over in 1938. Judging from year-in, year-out performances, only two of the games can be thought of as breathers, even if Kentucky sends out a better-than-average eleven.

Cincinnati U. and Xavier may not prove to be such formidable enemies, but the other teams billed annually produce first-class squads. Alabama, Tennessee, Tech, Georgia, Vandy, West Virginia and Auburn—jeeminy, but 'twould take a world-beater to run over all these.

Tennessee hasn't been beaten by Kentucky since 1935, Alabama hasn't been overcome since 1922, and the other teams have made a habit out of topping the 'Cats in recent years. Auburn hasn't been met in several seasons, but has caused considerable trouble in Southeastern Conference circles. Latest bit of work done by Auburn was a 27-13 win over Georgia that is regarded by many as the greatest upset of the year.

Four home games, five on the road—that's the set-up listed. Auburn, Xavier, Tech and Tennessee are to come here, while West Virginia, U.C. Georgia, Alabama and Vandy are to be met on foreign turf. Xavier's appearance in Lexington will mark the first time in history that Musketecr eleven has played on Stoll field. UC's name on the sked comes after an absence of several years.

As in 1942, the Big Blue opens with Georgia. Following the Bulldog clash, Vandy and Tech will be faced on successive weekends—an ambitious program for any team. Then comes the scrap with UC, and a contest with Auburn. Next week Alabama plays hosts to the Bluegrass lads, and then Xavier comes here for what is hoped to be a breathing spell. West Virginia appears next on the docket, and the traditional Turkey Day struggle with Tennessee rounds out the card.

A thumbnail sketch back over the years finds the following story concerning Kentucky's football relations with seven of the scheduled opponents:

Alabama has won 19 of 21 games with Kentucky; Vandy has triumphed 18 times in 21 starts; Georgia has edged the 'Cats, 2-1; Xavier has been beaten seven times in eight tries; West Virginia holds a 3-2 edge; Georgia Tech has topped the Wildcats six times in 11 efforts, and Tennessee has copied 21 contests in 37 outings. Little hope, isn't there, when you look at a record like that?

We've already predicted the discontinuance of inter-collegiate football, so, apparently, we have little business commenting on Kentucky's possibilities if the schedule should be played.

The complete schedule:

Sept. 25—Georgia at Athens
Oct. 2—Vanderbilt at Nashville
Oct. 9—Georgia Tech at Lexington
Oct. 16—University of Cincinnati at Cincinnati
Oct. 23—Auburn at Lexington
Oct. 30—Alabama at Tuscaloosa
Nov. 6—Xavier at Lexington
Nov. 13—West Virginia at Morgantown
Nov. 30—Tennessee at Lexington

Phil Cutchin, Bob Herbert, and John Hurst, in June (or before), all these swap their sheepskins for a two-tone outfit — with a drape shape.

Should football continue, these ten molesters' absence will be sorely felt. Not only have all of them lettered but they have repeatedly crashed into the starting lineup where most of them have stayed. Also during their short stay here, seven of them have at one time or another been placed on teams of the week in the South during regular season play.

When Dr. Lacy Lockert, retired Princeton faculty member, was asked why football appealed to him, he replied:

"Football has everything in a high degree. It combines deft execution of technical details with violent and spectacular physical contact, and with calculated planning in selection of offensive plays and defensive maneuvers to meet them, so that it has all the thrill and fascination of war—without the carnage of war."

"You said a mouthful, brother," shouted the reporter as he turned and set sail!!

CHIO'S, KAPPA'S LEAD BOWLING

Volley Ball Slated For This Week

By ALICE WATKINS
Women's Sports Reporter

Leading the field as the bowling results from last Tuesday's playoffs are chalked up are the Chios, Kappas, and the Women's Athletic association, with two games each to their credit and none lost.

The box scores read:

	Won	Lost
Chi Omega	2	0
Kappa Kappa Gamma	2	0
W. A. A.	2	0
Jewell hall	1	1
*Alpha Delta Pi	1	0
*Kappa Delta	0	1
Delta Delta Delta	0	2
B. O. W. A. A.	0	2
Alpha Xi Delta	0	2

*The ADPI's and KD's tied one game which will be rolled off next Tuesday.

In case you don't get what B. O. W. A. A. stands for, here 'tis — Bowling Outcasts of Women's Athletic association, and they'll be there every time. If these scores look kinda 'bad to some of you, the only remedy is to 'get in there and fight." Mary Searcy is bowling manager for the W. A. A.

Glamor Cats Defeat U of L, Tie Ursuline

On a field covered with mud and water the WAA Glamor Cats defeated the University of Louisville and tied Ursuline at the annual hockey meet at Louisville Saturday.

The University of Louisville team was defeated by a score of 1 to 0, with the Glamor Cats' center, A. G. Ratcliff, making the winning point. No score was made in the Ursuline game.

The University team was captained by Lucille Clarke, WAA vice president.

on the program for the association. Managers Peggy Howard and Martha McCauley are hoping that nothing will interfere with plans for the faculty-student tournament.

Following are the officers of the Women's Athletic association: Wilma Salmon, president; Jean Williams, vice president; Agnes Smith, secretary; Helen Harrison, treasurer.
